

Ivonne Quintana

Ivonne Quintana is the owner and CEO of Le BonBon Catering, LLC, which includes her restaurant Le BonBon Café. With the help of her family, she started the business in 2002. Ivonne has trained extensively in the culinary arts, specializing in wedding cakes, fondant, chocolate and decor. She has served as a member of the Utah Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, and the Midvale Chamber of Commerce, among others. In addition, Quintana has contributed to the community with her catering business by serving non-profit organizations, including the YWCA, St. Vincent DePaul Catholic Church and University Neighborhood Partners.

Ivonne and her husband, Lazaro, have two children. Their son, Jorge, is director of information technology at a Utah company, and their daughter, Dianne, recently finished her business administration degree. She has applied to attend medical school with plans of becoming a doctor. Ivonne's mother and father are retirees living in Utah.

Tell us about your family?

“As an immigrant I had hopes of providing a better life and an education for my children. My family is what inspires me to continue moving forward. I learn from them and they inspire me to be a better person. I am grateful to my parents for the sacrifices that they made in order for me to have an education and opportunities that otherwise would not have been available. The lessons they taught me served me to have self-motivation, a skill that has also helped my children along the way.”
