

Dr. Letitia Archuleta

Letitia Archuleta was born in Salt Lake City, educated in west side schools and graduated from South High School. She attended the University of Utah and graduated cum laude with a baccalaureate degree in biology, a master's degree of public health, and a doctoral degree in medicine. Her post-graduate medical education began in family practice and evolved into Occupational and Aviation Medicine, which she currently practices in Salt Lake City. Over the years, she has been involved in many community groups and organizations. She currently serves as a member of the Occupational Residency Advisory Committee at the University of Utah, Utah Medical Association, American College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine, and the Civil Aviation Medical Association. Letitia, her husband, two children, and one dog continue to live in and enjoy our Salt Lake City community.

Inspirational thought that has helped you during difficult times.

“Every person, including me, matters. Every person deserves to live with respect and dignity, and every person will leave a mark in the world. So, in the relationships I have with the patients I see, the people I meet in the community, and in the relationships I have with my children and family, my goal is that I be present, and that I practice kindness; and my hope is that the way I live touches the lives of those I have interactions with in a positive way.”
